

My friends and I went to a school house/cemetery outside of Keokuk, Iowa. While there, we didn't feel much of anything, and we were kind of disappointed, but upon returning, we took a look at the pictures we had taken.

Look at the window right about the schoolhouse door:

We were all standing behind the camera, yet it looks like someone is a little ways in front of it:

That same someone looks like it's beside the tombstone:

Basically, I don't think any of us will be going back there anytime soon. :)
